RtB uses development corridors, beginning with the Beira Corridor, as an organizing principle for investments to drive the transformation of Southern African farming and food systems and to connect smallholder farmers to commercial value chains. USAID supports RtB's Southern African Agriculture Development Partnership Platform (SAADPP), a private sector-led platform which brings together agribusinesses and other stakeholders to address agriculture sector challenges along the Beira Corridor through public-private partnerships with through policy advocacy and interventions, or the development of and investment in transformative agricultural projects.
